ARTICLE DEFINI ET INDEFINI

One of the eight parts of speech, an article is a word that modifies a noun in a particular way, by stating whether the noun is specific, unspecific, or partial. French articles agree in gender and number with the nouns they modify, and there are three types:

Definite / Défini

The definite article indicates that the speaker is referring to either a specific noun or to a class of nouns in a general sense. The English definite article, the, has four equivalent forms in French, depending on the gender and number of the noun as well as what letter it begins with.

le precedes masculin nouns: le garçon (the boy).

les precedes plural noun (masculine feminine): les gens (the people).

Masculine nouns:

l'éléphant (the elephant), l'hôtel (the hôtel), l'ami (male friend)

Feminine nouns:

l'amie (female friend), l'île (island), l'école (school)

Indefinite / Indéfini

The indefinite article indicates that the speaker is referring to either an unspecific noun or to one/some of something. The English indefinite article has two forms, a and an, while the French has three, depending on the gender and number of the noun.

The French indefinite articles are un (a), une (a/an) and des (some).

Un precedes masculine singular nouns:

un sac – a bag

un livre – a book

un homme – a man

un ami – a friend

Une precedes feminine singular nouns.

une fille – a girl

une femme – a woman

une maison – a house

Des precedes masculine and feminine plural nouns.

des stylos – (some) pens

des chiens – (some) dogs

des étudiants – (some) students
