CHANGING YOUR TOMORROW

Preety, a little girl, surprised to see her father waking her up. She asked about her mother and came to know that she is at hospital. She became worried as people go to hospital when they are sick.

Hospital means painful injections and bitter pills. Papa made her understand that ma will be back soon and he dressed her up for school. He helped her put on her shoes, do her hair, gave her the breakfast and dropped her at school. All her friends came with their mother, by seeing this she started crying. Suman madam who is her neighbour made her understand that her mother was all right. Then she came to know from her friend Ritu that her mother will bring her a baby brother or sister.

in the evening Preety along with her father went to hospital where she saw her baby sister. Her sister was lying in the cradle. She had a small pink face, tiny black eyes, very short hair and she cried very loudly.

She wanted to take her baby sister on her lap but papa denied as she was very small and asked her to suggest a name.

Preety thought for a while and declared it Neha.
