WORDS OF WISDOM

“Forgive those who make you feel small, hurt you, or become rude to you or bear enmity towards you. You can keep your mind fresh and happy”.

Read and understand

Hussein was the grandson of Prophet Mohammad. He had beautiful home full of wonderful things and his purse was always full. But Hussein was a bit ill-tempered. People were afraid of him. One evening, Hussein was having dinner. A-slave who was serving him split a bowl of hot water on his feet.

- Immediately, Hussein let out a cry of anger. The slave fell at his feet and begged for forgiveness. He also recited a verse from the Koran.

"Paradise is for those who control their anger" and for those who forgive men continued the slave " I am not angry said Hussein I forgive you. "For Allah loves the merciful, added the Servant.

In course of this conversation, Hussein's anger vanished completely. He bade the Slave to rise and said to him. "From now onwards you are a free man. Take these four hundred pieces of silver . In this way, Hussein learnt to control his temper. He was, by nature, very generous. Since his noble character was neither wicked nor cruel, it was worthy of being controlled.
