Wander-Thirst

by Gerald Gould

Get Going C

C) Let us go beyond the poem.

1) Do you think the seas, the stars and the sky really call the speaker?

Ans) No, I do not think that the seas, the stars and the sky really called him. I feel it was the imagination of the speaker as he loved nature from the core of his heart.

2) Do you think a passion for something inspires a person? Does it makes them mad and helpless?

Ans) Yes, according to me passion inspires a person. Yes, passion makes a person mad and helpless as it controls the individual completely.

LISTENING AND SPEAKING SKILL

Shweta – sunscreen, sunglasses, sandals, camera

Mehnaz – torches, jackets, scarves, binoculars, water bottles, caps

Vocabulary Junction

Simile – It is a literary technique/device/medium used to draw comparison between two different things, using like or as. The two different things in comparison might have a common feature.

Ex - He looks like a fish out of water. Her eyes shone like diamonds. She slept like a log. The airplane soared like an eagle.

Metaphor – It is a literary device/technique/medium used to draw comparison between two different things, but without using like or as.

Ex- John's suggestion was just a Band-Aid for the problem. My kid's room is a disaster area. Her lovely voice was music to his ears.

1) There is one more comparison in the poem. Can you spot? Is it a simile or a metaphor?

Ans) It works in me like madness, dear - Simile

2) Write S in the boxes for sentences having similes and M for those having metaphors.

a) Rocky, our dog, looked like a mud pie after playing in the puddle. S

b) The model was as tall as a giraffe after wearing the high heels. S

c) The giant's steps were thunder. M

d) The baby is a bundle of joy. M
