Let's Recapitulate

- Nona complains her grandpa, as she could not play with her friend because of heavy rain. And tells her grandpa to turn off the rain tap, to which her grandpa does the same.
- Gram Singh- the farmer, Sher Khan- the tiger suffered a lot due to bright sunny days for so long but the children are happy.

‘But the sunshine makes the children happy.,’ Nona tells Sher Khan and his friends. So, the sun shines on.

At the fruit market, Nayak delivers boxes of grapes. The fruit seller waits eagerly. 5 boxes, 10 boxes, 15 boxes...

‘What is this?’ yells a lady. ‘I asked for grapes, not raisins!’ She opens all the boxes. The boxes have raisins instead of juicy grapes!

‘The hot sun has dried the grapes, didi,’ explains Nayak. ‘Nona and her grandpa did this. Let us go see them.’

‘But the children are so happy with the sunshine, there are more children than all of you,’ says Nona.

The sun continues to shine brightly.

A large, bright yellow sun with rays is positioned in the upper left corner of the page, partially overlapping the text area.

Today is a special day. Mr and Mrs Deb decide to check how their new house is being built. When they arrive at the place where their house is being built, they are surprised. Instead of a house, there are only some bricks and a few odd walls.

‘We need water to mix the cement. The sun has dried up all the water,’ say the workers who are playing cards.

‘I know who is behind this- Nona and her grandpa,’ says Mr Deb. And off they go to see them.

A large, bright yellow sun with rays is positioned in the upper left corner of the slide, partially overlapping the text.

‘Oh no! The children like the sunshine,’ asserts Nona to the angry people.

‘There are more children than all of you!’

And the sun shines on, hotter than ever.

Just then Amma calls, ‘There is no water in the well.

‘We can't bathe, we can't wash clothes and we can't cook. What shall we do?’

As she hears this, Nona wails, ‘I am thirsty!’

‘Grandpa, turn the rain tap on!’, says she.

Grandpa and Nona turn the raintap on again.

Clouds begin to form. Drizzle falls and then the rain follows.
Everyone welcomes the refreshing rain.

‘Look Grandpa!’ exclaims Nona. The children are playing in the rain. They are so happy. They are happy even when it is raining.

‘We need both the sun and the rain. Too much of anything is bad,’ says grandpa.
