His cheeks were hollow. He had the look of a starved man. He made wire-traps.</li> <li>• He begged the material from stores and big farms.</li> <li>• Sometimes he resorted to begging and a little stealing to survive.</li> </ul>

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The world had never been kind to him. He had no home, no shelter.</li> <li>• One dark evening as he was trudging along the road, he caught sight of a little grey cottage by the roadside and he knocked to ask shelter.</li> <li>• The next day both men got up in good season. But half an hour later the peddler took the money and thrust it into his pocket and went away.</li> <li>• All at once, he recalled his thoughts about the world and the rattrap. He had let himself be fooled and found Ramsjo Ironworks, which was now closed down, was not so long ago, a large plant, with the smelter, rolling mill, and forge.</li> </ul>
