IV.9. AHS. No it cannot be called as grassland exactly because Grasslands often occur in areas with annual precipitation is between 600 mm (24 in) and

1,500 mm and average mean annual temperature ranges from  $-5$  and  $20^{\circ}\text{C}$  and climatic conditions

here do not support the grasslands naturally

therefore the lawns growing grass in it is maintained artificially.

IV.10. AHS. Hunting of food

Hunting for food is for survival

~~It should be hunting~~

Hunting of pleasure

It is for pride

I think hunting should be banned because it causes a lot of suffering and death. It can lead to violence against humans. It also tears animal families apart.

11.11.15

The main occupation of the the people in the western part of the prairie is cattle rearing for beef and dairy products. It is no beef.

- Towards the west, the prairies are hilly and soil is not so fertile.
- These areas are mainly used to rear cattle in large farms called ranches.
- The cattle are sent to slaughter houses in the cities for production of beef.

11.12.15. There were millions of bison a few hundred years ago in the prairie. But we cannot see any now. It is so because -

- Most of the land has been cleared for agriculture.
- Bison were hunted for slaughter purpose.
- Introduction of bovine diseases from domestic cattle was also a reason for making bison an extinct animal.
