

Autumn Season

Autumn season starts before the starting of winter & usually in the month of September. Specifically, the autumn season ranges between September and November in the northern hemisphere. This season is also known as fall season in many countries. Autumn season commences with its own beauty and brings the moments of joy and happiness. This season adds extraordinary beauty in nature and the environment as compared to other seasons.

During autumn, you can see the beautiful colours on the tree leaves like vivid yellow, rich-reddish-brown, ochre and the scraps of the trees and plants beautifully coloured and splattered around every where. Well, you can experience the best of nature during this season as you can see the changing colours of the trees that turn from lush green to shades of red, orange and brown. Many people make travel plans during this season as it is one of the most pleasant seasons of the year along with exhibition the most beautiful aspects of nature.