Summary

❖ In Aven-Kolatkou's poem, "An Old Woman" is about someone walking and a woman grabs his/her sleeve. For a price, she will take what seems to be sightless to a nearby shrine. The man will n't be interested: he ~~was~~ / she has soon the shrine before. However, the woman will be insistent; the man may want to dismiss her because she is an old woman, they cling and don't let to go.
