

A- Macavity is a ginger coloured cat. He is very tall and thin. He can be recognised from his eyes which are deeply sunken in. He has lines on his forehead, deepened with thought. He has a highly domed head, his feet are untidy and his whiskers are uncombed and even. When he is mistakably to be asleep, he is wide awake.

4A- Macavity has looted from the London, rifled the Jewel Case, consumed all the milk etc. He has stifled Pekingese dogs, broken the green house glass and destroyed the Terrells. Whenever the Foreign office found that a treaty has gone astray or the Admiralty lost some plans or drawings, they believed Macavity is the culprit.

5 Murgeston and Griddle have one wicked cat, but their devilishness is nothing in comparison to Macavity. The poet compares Macavity to a man who is helped by his agent, Murgeston and Griddle, but in controlling operations.

81 It is useless to investigate Macavity as he never leaves any evidence at the scene of crime. It always appears as if he was never present at the scene also he always has some trick to prove his innocence.

2 The sentence 'Macavity is not there' is repeated throughout the poem. It signifies Macavity's cleverness as he manages to commit crimes everywhere but never leaves behind any evidence.

3 The speaker has used exaggeration in many places. For example, Macavity can defy the law of gravity and move so fast that even Scotland Yard is not even able to catch him.

C1 I think Macavity intentionally commits crime. Activities that are illegal to him might be considered a criminal offense by others as they comprise much destruction of property or an disturbance to people.

2 I don't think the poet is talking about a cat in the poem, he must be presenting a demon in cat shape.
