

Shankar woke up at midnight as if a sixth sense had woken him up cause there was also a dangerous snake; a black mamba in there. He was totally numb with fear and awe when he saw it and ended up forgetting everything but the fact that if his hands moved a bit, the snake would inject lethal venom in his blood. He had lost all sensations in his fore-arm by holding the torch up for so long.