

2. Tick (✓) the correct pronouns for the sentences below.

(a) Did Disha meet (me/you) today?

(b) I lost my pencil today. Preeti told (you/me) that I could use her pencil.

(c) I know Arun gave (me/you) the book.

(d) You should eat more fruits. It's good for (me/you).

(e) I was waiting for Sai. He said he would meet (me/you) today.

you is used to the person directly.

Now, look at these sentences.

Jiya helped him do the homework.

I gave her the book yesterday.

I liked the movie. We watched it yesterday.

In these sentences, all the words in red are used to talk about a single person or thing.

We use the pronoun him to talk about a boy or a man. We use her to talk about a girl or a woman. The pronoun it is used for an animal or an object.

Examples:

The children called him to the farm.

The police helped her.

Suresh found a box. It had colourful balls.

