

Caste system is very much inherent & it plays a dominant role in politics. There are many caste groups like 'Kandis' which are in power by all methods to fulfill their demands.

It also plays its role when candidates nominated by parties. This weakens the system. Voters even though being illiterate and to vote Thiru over unions on caste increase loyalty rather than national interest Political parties have come up to protect interest of backward class the scheduled castes and tribes also reservation, which led to inequality of castes
