

Split and merge segmentation is an image processing technique used to segment an image processing technique used to segment an image. The image is successively split into quadrants based on a segmented result... The total image is a parent, and each of the four splits is a child.