

In universe only Earth is a living planet.

All living things need air, water and right amount of temperature to live.

Specific atmosphere need to live.

All the above things exist in Earth so Earth is living planet.

The other planet has not pass above things so they are not living planet.