Pollution

Pollution is the process of making environment pollute. Pollution causes imbalance in the environment. The major reason for pollution is the unchecked illegal activities that misuse natural resources. Anything that causes pollution is called pollutant. It can be solid, liquid or even gas. No matter what state the pollutant is, it is still harmful for the environment. Water pollution forms a major category and has become a major crisis in many countries. Then the air pollution. It is mainly caused by harmful gases which is caused by the gas of vehicles. These harmful gases cause global warming. Then soil pollution. It is caused when we throw non-biodegradable waste like plastic in the soil. The last one is noise pollution. It occurs due to high volume noise. Hence, all pollutions are harmful.
