

The bazaar of Hyderabad was crowded. Merchants, vendors, maidens, pedlars, goldsmiths, fruitmen, musicians, magicians and others were doing their work. The merchants were asked what they are selling, vendors were asked what they are weighing, maidens were asked what they were gauding, pedlars were asked what they are calling, goldsmiths were asked what they are making, fruitmen were asked what they were carrying, musicians were asked what they were playing, magicians were asked what were they chanting.
