

A lotus plant cannot grow in desert because they have adapted life in water and have developed leaves that are able to lose water quickly and easily.