Every year ~~our~~ our family plans a trip to an exciting and new ~~dest~~ destination.

This year ~~too~~ ^{too}, we were ready to explore the beautiful ~~can~~ country of Bhutan.

The first year ~~too~~ ^{too}, we were thing I noticed about ~~the~~ Bhutan was its cleanliness.

There was an immense sense of respect

towards nature in all of Bhutan's residents.

I later found out that in Bhutan, the national goal is to make sure that all of its citizens are happy.

Hence, they measure a country's development through an index named

Gross National Happiness. I was so amazed to know this! Bhutan is also the ~~only~~ only country in the world that is carbon negative.

Most countries produce larger amounts of carbon dioxide than their trees can absorb. Bhutan, however, still has an enormous forest cover, which ensures that it absorbs more carbon dioxide than it produces! While walking through the streets of Bhutan, I remember inhaling deeply because I knew the air I was breathing was fresh and unpolluted. I left Bhutan with the memories of a ~~was~~ wonderful nation that lived in harmony with ~~X~~ nature.
