

(parallels) The importance of line of latitudes

Ans- Lines of latitude (or parallels) are important as lines of latitude mix with Lines of Longitude to form a global grid to give us coordinates of location of a place and help us to locate places using globes. They give the north to south coordinates of a place. Thus, it tells how much distance should be travelled to the north ~~or~~ or to the south, so, that there will be no confusion in locating a place. If there were no lines of latitudes, ~~and~~ there would be more confusion in locating places through globes or maps.
