

19/7/21 HOME ASSIGNMENT

1. Why epidermis is important for plants?

Ans) Epidermis is important for the plants as, it acts as the protective tissue, protects the plants from mechanical injuries, heat and cold, infection and also from undue loss of water (desiccation)

2. Cork cells are made impermeable to water and gases by the presence of which substance?

Ans) Suberin

3. Define Guttation.

Ans Guttation is the loss of water in the form of droplets through hydathodes.