● Write a paragraph on 'Indian Village'.

India is a land of villages. Mahatma Gandhi said the real India lives in village. The government of Free India paid much attention to the lifting of the standards of Indian villagers. An Indian village is still suffering lots of problems that rank from lack of education to improper sanitation. Now government is providing electric power supplies in their homes. There is also a well outside the village. When the word "village" first comes to mind, we imagine a lush green field and unpolluted environment will be there. People in villages lead a very ordinary life with almost no luxury, but they are happy with their limitation.
