

Homework

① What are the powers of prime minister and president of India?

→ The prime minister of India is the head of government and has the responsibility for ~~the~~ executive power. The president's constitutional duty is to preserve, protect and defend the constitution and the law per article 60.