Story Writing

One day a dog had got a big piece of chapati at his master home. It thought to eat the chapati at the river side which was a beautiful place. The dog started moving to the site. Walking a few distance a small bridge came which was not much high from the water body. It started to cross the bridge. But in the middle of the bridge it saw his own reflection in the pool of water. The dog thought saw that the dog in the pool which was its own reflection was also carrying a piece of chapati in its mouth. Now Now the dog's greediness arrived. It wanted to eat the other piece of the chapati and barked at its reflection. As soon as the dog started barking the chapati in its mouth fell into the pool and he was too disappointed and went to its home.

The moral of the story is greedy person never gets anything in its life.
