

HW

What are gametes?

During the process of reproduction, males and females produce special types of reproductive cells i.e. sperms and eggs respectively. These are known as gametes.