

One night, Shankar suddenly woke up. The room was pitch dark. His sixth sense woke him up warning him that he was in a huge danger.

His hands searched for the torch and finally got it. The moment he switched on the light, his whole body froze at the moment he saw the view in front of him. It was something which no one ever wants to meet. It was Africa's meanest and most feared snake, the black mamba.