What do you think happened after the speaker's wife discovered the 'bale of hay' in the car's boot? How would she have reacted? How would the ~~speaker~~ ~~the~~ ~~how~~ speaker have explained the confusion? Write a dialogue between the speaker and his wife.

→ Dialogue between JB BOOTHROYD and his wife.

wife - what is this ~~the~~ 'bale of hay' in the boot? instead of fish and groceries.

Mr. Boothroyd - what! what I have done. I bought wrong car this time.

wife - what do you mean

Mr. Boothroyd - Its a long story. I was driving back home. When suddenly I found I was being licked by a dog. So, I thought I didn't bought our dog then what that so I saw the dog's name and the address so that I can drop that dog to his owner's house but then I got a lady's purse from the chubbhole! I thought I was in the dog's car. I rode to the address and got to know I exchanged the name of pet and owner. Then I understood that car was mine only. Lady soon arrived and explained ~~everything~~ everything bearing of that lady's carelessness. I got late too and I bought there car now.

wife:- Ok let it be now. Let's go and return the car to them and bring our fish and groceries.

Mr. Boothroyd - Okay.
