

The helping hand is about a series of letters, between 2 friends that tells a heartwarming and touching story about their ~~metat~~ friendship. A girl was new to her school and she was physically handicapped and no one wanted to become a friend with her because she had only 1 hand. In this story, the writer was asked to show classes and around the school. First, the writer hesitated but later due to a kind and good behaviour of the new girl, she became a good friend. They share everything by writing letters. The physical differences between both didn't stop to make a good relation of friendship and a kind one with the helping nature of the new girl won the writer's heart.
