

HOME ASSIGNMENT

Q1) What is the positive side of the large population?

The positive side of having a large population for a country is when the population is an asset to it.

Q2) When does population become human capital?

Population becomes human capital for a country when there is an investment made on the citizens in terms of education, health, training, experience & skill.

Q3) What is human capital?

Human capital is the stock of skill and productive knowledge embodied in them.

4) How does society benefit from investment in humans?
Society benefits from investments made in humans when investments are made and they become educated, experienced, trained, creative, & skilled & are considered as human capital, which is an asset for the country.

5) How can investment be made in humans?
Investment can be made in humans in terms of education, health care, training, experience, skill, knowledge, awareness, creativity etc.

6) Define GNP.

GNP stands for Gross National Product. It is the total amount of goods & services produced by the citizens of the country in its financial year.