1. Without fire, humankind was worse off than beasts. They were living in the caves and in holes of the earth, shivering from cold, dying of starvation hunted both by wild beast and by each other.

2. People came out of caves looking at Prometheus suspiciously as they couldn't believe anybody would bother to help them.

3. No, I don't think Zeus was right in not giving fire to human kind. He was being selfish by refusing to impart the knowledge of fire to others. As a powerful being Zeus had the ability to help out those in need and he refused to do so merely because he was scared that humans would become stronger than him after obtaining fire. I think that fire has definitely made humans more powerful because of most beast are scared ~~than~~ fire

2. If I were Zeus, I would have been upset at first because Prometheus stole a spark from my lightning bolt with out my knowledge. However after finding out why he did so I would have understood his action and appreciated his decision to help human kind
