

Early on winter mornings we see droops of water on parked cars and plants because the temperatures drop and objects cool down in the winter morning and force the water vapour in the air to condense and due to this condensation dew ~~is~~ is formed.