

Q: The rural areas were captured with cultures, they believed that traditions and cultures are everything. They believed that if a person disrespects cultures and ~~the~~ traditions he/she is spoilt ~~or~~ or has habited bad habits. So, the society was very much dependent on tradition and they also were furious when the British ~~introduced~~ introduced some acts which were against their traditions. They had such cruel traditions towards women. They treated widows as outcastes and did not let them live an independent life. They made women believe that they are dependent on men for their basic needs. They had traditions like: Sati, which was known as the burning alive of women in the funeral pyre of their husbands. They were either burnt alive or were sent to holy places or temple cities and were ~~then~~ treated as they were outcastes and were allowed to eat only bland vegetarian food.