The Elephant and The ant.

Once upon a time there lived a giant and energetic elephant in a ~~denselarge~~ forest. One day he was walking from place to place eating all the fruits that came his way.

Then he bumped upon an area where a bird had a nest with 2 eggs in it.

The bird humbly asked the elephant ~~to~~ not to trample the tree and the surrounding area, but the elephant was so distracted that he didn't even listen what the bird had to say and went on and bam! he broke the tree and the eggs fell from the tree and ~~were~~ were broken down.

The bird was very sad. During that time, an ant was passing by. He asked about what happened and the bird explained everything to the ant. Then the ant swore to teach the elephant a lesson.

Then the ant went over to the elephant and asked him to apologize but the elephant talked about how powerless he was the ant was. Then the ant went inside his trunk and started to bite him. The elephant tried to blow him off but he couldn't. Then the elephant soon after gave in and agreed to apologize to the bird for what he ~~did~~ had done.
