

River

Rivers are very much important in our life from social, economic or religious aspects. They provide cheap transportation, source of livelihood, electricity, sea animals, minerals as well and gemstones. Many rivers in India have got the status of goddess or a mother in various Hindu religious books. River 'Ganga' is the longest river of India; and by water flow, 'Brahmaputra' is the largest one. Rivers with a steep slope and flowing quickly with a few tributaries is 'Youthful river'. While, a river with a less steep slope and containing more tributaries is a 'Mature river'. Rivers are the best place of tourism like river rafting, boating, cruise ship travelling, etc.
