

The people of the Indus valley civilisation provided explicit attention to elaborate town planning. The streets cut each other at right angles.

- 2- The religious beliefs of neolithic people were as follows: (a) They buried the dead in graves, along with their weapons, pottery, food and drink in the belief that these things were required after death.