Television

NAME - Madham

Television was invented by the scientist J.L Baird. Television has become one of the most common things in our day-to-day life and everyone has a television in their house. Television has become the main source of entertainment, news, and information. Television has brought the whole world into our house within a small box. When we open a news channel on TV we get so much information about our locality, states, country, and also about the whole world. To get rid of headache and boredom we open an entertainment channel like movies and cartoons. There are also some information and learning channels that are there on TV. Television has also some disadvantages that are, it affects our brain and eyes, watching T.V in excess is a wastage of time.
