

Ben Rogers walks from there where Tom convinces him by saying that white from convinces him washing a fence is great pleased and that Ben agrees to give Tom his apple in exchange for privilege of work on fence over there course, every boy who passes ends up by staying to whit wash and each can give Tom something in exchange by the time the fence works complete Tom muses that all it takes to make some one want something is make thing hard to get.