

Q1 Indus valley civilization was developed in North west part of the Indian subcontinent about 4700 years ago in the bronze age in the valley of Indus river. This civilization was the largest in the world. The important civilizations are Mohenjodaro, Harappa in Pakistan, Dholavira in Gujarat etc. The town planning was such that the street cut each other by right angles. The citadel was at a higher level it contained a rectangular tank called great bath found in Mohenjodaro. The great bath was used by the people to have a bath before going to important functions & ceremonies. The houses were built above flood level. Each house had a single entrance. Out of every 3 houses had a well. The houses were having very good drainage system & were covered. The people ate cereals like wheat, barley, millets like Bajara, maida. The people used fish, meat, milk & fruit as their diet.

HW
8/10

Q2 The religious beliefs of neolithic people was nature gods in many forms, trees, caves, water etc. The most gods was another - another belief.