

H/W
08/12/21

Home Assignment

Date _____
Page _____

1. Under what circumstances the president can declare emergency in the country?

Ans - The president can declare emergency in the country when there is an internal crisis or civil war, external force threatening the sovereignty of the country, breakdown in the constitutional machinery of a particular state and threat to financial stability of the country.

2. Explain judicial powers of the president.

Ans - The judicial powers of the president are that the president can reduce or commute death sentence to life imprisonment on receiving a petition for mercy. The people committing crime made them punishment or death. The people are now receiving a petition for mercy. So judicial power is what that the president want to reduce or commute death sentence to life imprisonment on receiving a petition for mercy.