Gopal and Hari were walking down a dusty road. They were carrying an enormous brinjal under their shoulders. Suddenly, they were stopped by a king's ~~sold~~ guard in the middle of nowhere. He told that some thieves had stolen some important thing in this village, so the king has closed all the ways of going out of the village. You cannot go outside the village now. Is this a brinjal which you are carrying? If yes, then why is it so big? Gopal told "If you think it is strange, then taste it. He thought it is not good for him. He told them to taste it first. Gopal and Hari ~~the~~ tasted ~~the~~ and returned to the village. The soldier stopped them and asked "Why are you going back?" They told it's half eaten it cannot be sold. The soldier said sorry for wasting their brinjal and time. He thought that he should ~~let them go~~ have let them go.
