

Even on a very hot day people in coastal areas do not feel very hot. Why ans: Even on a very hot day people in coastal areas do not feel very hot because land absorbs heat faster than sea.

So during the day cool air from sea rush toward the land and during the night cool air from the land rush toward the sea.