

Bubbles appear when you open the bottle of soda but not when you open bottle of mineral water. Why?

The gas that bubbles out of an aerated drink is carbon dioxide. It is dissolved in water under great pressure.