

Indian Rivers

On the basis of origin, the rivers of India can be divided into Himalayan rivers and peninsular rivers. India's biggest river is Ganga is originated from a iceberg called Gangotri in Himalayas and it is ranked the 3rd largest river of world and its length is about 2,400 kilometre. After that also many big rivers are also in Indian River list.