Thursday
Dear Diary

Today a very funny and serious incident happened with me. I was working hard yesterday. Going through all the topics taught & finally ready for the English examination. But when I got the question paper, I was completely shocked by seeing the question. It was the exam of Social Science & I ~~had~~ read English. I became restless & at last calmed my mind & wrote everything which I could remember. Hope so I would be able to score good marks in the test.

Rohan.

Dear Diary,

Today I had the bitterest experience of my life. I never had such experience in my life. I had gone to Agra for an urgent work. There were very few buses running today as most of them had been put on election duty. I waited for two hours at bus stop to get into the bus. It was much crowded. People were pushing each other. Luggage was being over people. The bus was more than full than its capacity. There were brawls, even fist fighting was somehow brought under control by the timely intervention of some elderly passengers. I somehow managed to get some space for me. It was really difficult to even breathe there. After two hours of journey I came out of the bus & took a sigh of relief. I will never forget this journey in my life.

Dear Diary

My joy knows no bound today. It is my birthday & my father give me a portable laptop as a gift. It is like a dream come true as I wanted to possess one for a long time. Now I would be able to browse necessary information that I could not find in library. I can't thank my father enough for the gift that he has given. He has never deprived us of anything from life.

Now, I can communicate with people through email & even chat my friends. I can play games during the leisure time. Although it is a small thing it holds the entire world. I hope I am able to use the gift effectively. Internet today can make us global, so it is a great relevance in today's world.
