

1. Mitochondria is known as power house of the cell because the energy required for various chemical activities needed for life that is released by the mitochondria in the form of ATP.

2. Because it contains its own DNA and ribosomes from which they are able to make their own proteins.

3. Ribosomes

Helps to synthesize proteins.

Decoding the messages.

Formation of peptide bonds.