

1) There are various blood groups.

There are O positive and negative
A positive and negative
B positive and negative
AB positive and negative

2) O positive is the universal donor because it can donate to all kind of blood, according to blood group positive and negative.

3) O negative blood group is the universal acceptor.