Animals: living and surviving

Adaptations of the camel

- Long eyelashes and thin, slit nostrils that can close to protect them from blowing sand
- Fat-filled ~~to supply them~~ humps will break down to supply them with the energy (and moisture) they need to survive long treks in the desert.
- An extremely long large intestine (colon) for reabsorbing water.

Adaptations of polar Bear

- They have white fur on their body.
- Their white fur helps to merge with snow.
