

Q Write a short note on rural life and culture of India before British rule.

Ans Before the coming of the British, although India wasn't modernised but India was a happy place. The people here were self-sufficient and flourishing economy. Our country was also known as golden eagle. When the British came, India suffered a lot. Mostly, the rural people who lost their money and employment, when the factories which were introduced by the British became popular. When the farmers were self-sufficient, they were forced to grow cash crops, although the government prospered, but the farmers suffered. ~~Also, been~~
