

Tigers are among the most endangered animals on earth. The natural population of these beautiful felines that we are used to seeing under captivity is disintegrating slowly.

That has huge implications for this ecosystem that we inhabit, as tigers have a crucial role to play in the ecosystem.