

Homework

① Tissue is a level of organization in multicellular organisms.

② Whereas animals consist of only living tissues. Hence, they contain living tissues in order to provide energy for movement. Also, both animals & plants perform different functions.

③

